Course Description

This course explores issues inherent to regions facing the aftermath of large-scale events of social violence, including war, genocide, and authoritarian rule, with an emphasis on questions of justice and post-conflict reconstruction. Students will examine specific cases of recent attempts to establish just responses to conflict within affected communities.

Course Materials

The field of transitional justice and post-conflict reconstruction is so new that no textbook exists that will give us a proper overview of the field. As such, there is no assigned textbook, per se. Instead, we will undertake a survey of the literature, reading book chapters, journal articles, and technical reports that have been written about different aspects of the discipline.

Some of the readings have been posted to OWL under the “Resources” tab.

Other readings are available as e-books and in e-journals through the Western Libraries system. You are responsible for obtaining them yourself.

Important Notice re: Prerequisites/Antirequisites

Unless you have either the requisites for this course or written special permission from your Dean to enroll in it, you may be removed from this course and it will be deleted from your record. This decision may not be appealed. You will receive no adjustment to your fees in the event that you are dropped from a course for failing to have the necessary prerequisites.
How to think about this course

This course is designed to reinforce ideas and theories in the field of transitional justice and post-conflict reconstruction, by tracing the contours of what scholars are thinking about, by outlining the major debates and issues currently underway, and by setting out the major themes and approaches of the field.

The assignments and your evaluation in this course are designed to help you develop your critical thinking skills in ways that relate to your interests in specific areas or theories in the field of transitional justice and post-conflict reconstruction. We will cover a range of debates and issues, and while you may not agree with all of them, you should be able to discuss all of them intelligently. Your ability to accomplish these objectives will be assessed using the assignments and work outlined below.

It is also important to note that the field of transitional justice and post-conflict reconstruction is interdisciplinary, by its very nature. Your colleagues in this class come from different scholarly traditions and disciplines. This presents us with an exciting opportunity to look at different issues and events through the eyes of all of those traditions and disciplines. Sometimes this might mean that your colleagues seem to be speaking a foreign language! But if we take the time to listen, we can learn a lot from those other perspectives.

Objectives

This course has three main objectives:

First, this course is designed to reinforce students’ knowledge of the important theories, perspectives and issues that shape the context and nature of the field of transitional justice and post-conflict reconstruction. This body of ideas will continue to add to students’ foundation in the field for any future interests and research in this area and establish a comparative basis for further study.

Second, the assignments in this course are designed to help students further develop critical thinking skills. These skills will be applied to specific issues and case studies in transitional justice and post-conflict reconstruction.

Third, the course aims to help students appreciate how power, culture and history condition and influence how you understand particular issues and events. These questions are of real consequence to the field of transitional justice and post-conflict reconstruction, but also to an understanding of the world in which we live.

By the end of the course students should be able to:

1. Discuss different approaches to transitional justice and post-conflict reconstruction
2. Describe the key components of the field
3. Evaluate the effectiveness of a transitional justice and post-conflict reconstruction response
4. Discuss a current transitional justice and post-conflict reconstruction issue in historical context
5. Analyze a current policy and political issues in transitional justice and post-conflict reconstruction
Course Content Note

The field of transitional justice and post-conflict reconstruction deals with disturbing events like war crimes, crimes against humanity, and genocide, and sometimes we will be discussing historical events that some students may find troubling. If you think specific material could be emotionally challenging for you, I would be happy to discuss any concerns you may have before the subject comes up in class. And if you ever wish to discuss your personal reactions to course material with the class or with me individually afterwards, I welcome these discussions as an appropriate part of our scholarly work.

If you ever feel the need to step out of the classroom during a class discussion, you may always do so without academic penalty. You will, however, be responsible for any material you miss. If you do leave the room for a significant time, please make arrangements to get notes from another student or see me individually to discuss the situation.

Non-medical and Medical accommodation

Western University requires documentation from the medical community for students who require academic accommodation due to medical illness—even accommodation for medical illness of work worth less than 10% of the total course grade. Students are required to have their physician or health care provider fill out the Student Medical Certificate. Medical certificates will only be considered for students seriously affected by illness, who can not reasonably be expected to meet his/her academic responsibilities. Medical certificates may NOT be issued for minor illness like colds, non-acute vomiting or diarrhea, menstrual cramps, insomnia or for past illnesses.

If the requested accommodation is related to a death in the family, please see your Academic Counsellor directly.

Non-medical absences from lectures and tutorials will be noted. Absences will affect students’ performance in the course. In particular, participation grades will be affected, since a student cannot “participate” if they miss a class; therefore, no participation grade may be earned on a day that a student is absent. The same is true of weekly reflections. If a student misses a midterm or final exam for non-medical reasons, accommodation must be sought and obtained from Academic Counselling, or else the student will receive a grade of zero. Late essays will be subject to a penalty of 10% per day unless accommodation is granted by Academic Counselling.

If documentation is required for either medical or non-medical academic accommodation, then such documentation must be submitted by the student directly to the appropriate Faculty Dean’s office and not to the instructor. It will be the Dean’s office that will determine if accommodation is warranted.

For further information, please see the Policy on Accommodation for Medical Illness at https://studentservices.uwo.ca/secure/index.cfm.
Methods of Evaluation

Weekly Critical Reflections (9 @ 3 marks) 27%
Participation 18%
Presentation 10%
Essay (due February 12) 25%
Advocacy Assignment (March 25) 20%

- Weekly Critical Reflections (27%)

For 9 weeks, at the beginning of class, students will submit a 500-word response to a question related to that week’s topic. The instructor will provide the question to be answered at the end of the previous week’s class. Students must answer that question, using material from each of the readings. The student’s name and student number must be clearly visible on the top right corner of the assignment. Each critical reflection will be worth 3% of the student’s final grade.

Critical reflections will be due on the following dates:
- January 15
- January 22
- January 29
- February 05
- February 12
- February 26
- March 04
- March 11
- March 18

- Participation (18%)

This assessment will be based on regular contributions to the class discussion, reflecting some grasp of the relevant materials and some analytical abilities in applying those materials in the discussion. This is not an attendance mark; you will be evaluated on your in-class discussion and participation. Students should consult the handout “Student Participation” on page 11, below, for criteria.

- Presentation (10%)

Each week, one or two students will present the main points and arguments pertaining to that week’s case study, and also relating to that week’s main theme, to the class; whether there are one or two presenters, there will only be one presentation that week. Each week’s presentation should be approximately 20 minutes in length, and must include a one-page, single-sided hand-out for students in the class as well as questions for discussion. As the presentation is expected to be a joint project between the students involved, all students in the group will receive the same grade.
- Essay (25%)

You will be required to write one essay of 2250-2500 words (excluding footnotes and bibliography), presented as typed, double-spaced pages, using 12-point Times New Roman font with one-inch margins. The topic of the paper must be selected in consultation with, and with the approval of, the instructor.

Late Penalty
The completed paper must be submitted at the beginning of class on February 12. A late penalty of 10% per day will be applied to papers submitted at any point after the class begins on February 12.

Turnitin
Essays must be submitted to Turnitin.com, using the “Assignments” link on OWL, prior to the start of class on February 12.

Citation Style
Citations must be formatted using Chicago-style footnotes, not in-text citations. Students are advised to consult a writer’s handbook when composing their essays in order to see how to format things like bibliography and footnotes. One excellent handbook is A Manual for Writers of Term Papers, Theses, and Dissertations by Kate L. Turabian. A useful link may be found at the following url: http://www.wisc.edu/writing/Handbook/DocChicago.html.

Spelling and Grammatical Errors
Grammatical, spelling and other errors are not acceptable. You are responsible for your own work, and, as such, you must be careful to proofread your work before turning it in.

Bibliography
You must attach a Bibliography to your essay. Your bibliography must include a minimum of four academic sources (consult a librarian for clarification on what counts as an academic source (e.g. newspapers, magazines, and encyclopedias do not count). Failure to include at least four academic sources will result in a grade of “F”. The highest grades in this course typically go to students that consult a large number of high-quality source materials. Consulting more than six sources is highly recommended.

- Advocacy Assignment (20%)

On March 25, students will prepare a 1000-word brief to Amnesty International on the crisis in Yemen. In their capacity as scholars of the subject of transitional justice and post-conflict reconstruction, students are expected to draw on the lessons learned throughout the term, and, using examples from each of the cases studied in class, to make a forceful argument for what should be done in the on-going crisis in Yemen. At the end of the assignment, students may choose to send their assignment to Amnesty International. Students will tailor their assignment to a question posed by the instructor on the day of the assignment.
Turnitin

All required papers may be subject to submission for textual similarity review to the commercial plagiarism detection software under license to the University for the detection of plagiarism. All papers submitted for such checking will be included as source documents in the reference database for the purpose of detecting plagiarism of papers subsequently submitted to the system. Use of the service is subject to the licensing agreement, currently between The University of Western Ontario and Turnitin.com (http://www.turnitin.com).

Attendance

A student who, in the opinion of the instructor, is absent too frequently from class will be reported to the Dean of the Faculty of Social Science after due warning has been given.

Completion of Course Components

Students who fail to complete all evaluation components of the course without supporting medical documentation or justifiable and documented extenuating circumstances will be disqualified from appealing the course's final grade.

Etiquette

Discussion and debate is an important component of this course. However, at times, we will be dealing with sensitive and controversial topics. Therefore, our interactions in each forum must be guided by an ethic of respect. Uncivil, disrespectful, abusive or other inappropriate behaviour will not be tolerated. This includes the respectful use of electronics, as detailed below.

Electronics

Electronics are increasingly an important component of the learning process. But the scholarly literature is quite clear that laptops distract from learning, both for users and for those around them. The use of electronics also undermines learning in classrooms and hurt productivity in seminars. As such:
• Computer/laptop/netbook (and similar technologies) use will not be permitted to be used in class.
• All cellphones (and similar technologies) must be turned off, or set to silent ‘vibration’ mode during the duration of the class. The instructor reserves the right to ensure that you are not text-messaging, surfing the internet, or distracting any students; spot-checks may be conducted during class time.
• No digital taping (either voice or image) of the lectures is allowed.
• Disruptive behavior will be dealt with on a case-by-case basis.
Academic Dishonesty

Many different types of actions may be considered academically dishonest. These might include, although not exhaustively, the following: cheating, submission of work not authored by you, double submission, fabrication, plagiarism. Scholastic offences are taken seriously and students are directed to read the appropriate policy, specifically, the definition of what constitutes a Scholastic Offence at www.uwo.ca/univsec/pdf/academic_policies/appeals/scholastic_discipline_undergrad.pdf. You are advised to familiarize yourself with the guidelines set out in the Academic Handbook, Rights and Responsibilities, Scholastic Discipline - Undergrad.

Students are also advised to utilize the Library’s tools on plagiarism: http://www.lib.uwo.ca/tutorials/plagiarism/index.html

Students with Disabilities

Any student with a disability is advised to contact the Coordinator for Services for Students with Disabilities in order that arrangements can be made through them to accommodate that student. The Centre for Student Development is located in UCC Suite 210; they can be reached by telephone at (519)661-2147, by email at ssc@sdcsdc.uwo.ca, or on the web at http://www.sdc.uwo.ca/ssd/

Mental/Emotional Distress

Students who are in emotional/mental distress should refer to Mental Health@Western http://www.uwo.ca/uwocom/mentalhealth/ for a complete list of options about how to obtain help.

Other Resources

There are many resources at Western designed to assist you in your learning. You are strongly advised to utilize these services. The Student Development Centre offers many services, including Effective Writing Programs and Learning Skills Services. The Student Development Centre is located in UCC Suite 210; they can be reached by telephone at (519)661-2147, by email at exams@sdcsdc.uwo.ca, or on the web at http://www.sdc.uwo.ca/. You should also become familiar with the services offered by the University Library System. The D.B. Weldon Library may be contacted by telephone at (519)661-3162 or by email at dbwref@lib.uwo.ca, or on the web at http://www.lib.uwo.ca/weldon/.
